Many people are feeling lost and uncertain. They don't know how to navigate this new world or how to prepare for the future. Dawn of the New Everything offers a lifeline to help you make sense of the chaos and to thrive in this new era.

About the Authors

John Hagel and John Seely Brown are two of the world's leading experts on innovation and disruption. They have spent decades studying how organizations and individuals can thrive in a rapidly changing world.

Hagel is the co-founder of the Deloitte Center for the Edge and a former senior partner at McKinsey & Company. Brown is a former chief scientist at Xerox PARC and a visiting scholar at the MIT Media Lab. Together, they have written seven books, including The Power of Pull and Shifting the Power: The Future of Leadership in a More Interconnected and Collaborative World.

What You'll Learn in Dawn of the New Everything

Dawn of the New Everything is a comprehensive guide to help you understand the profound changes taking place in our world today and to prepare for the future. The book covers a wide range of topics, including:

- The new rules of innovation

- The future of work

- The future of education

- The future of society

Hagel and Brown offer practical advice on how to navigate these changes and to thrive in the new era. They show you how to:

- Develop a "mental model" for the future

- Create a "learning agility" mindset

- Build a "network of networks"

- Become a "catalyst for change"

Dawn of the New Everything is an essential read for anyone who wants to understand the future and to prepare for it. The book will help you to make sense of the chaos and to find your way in the new world.
